

Research & Development

AskKrishna CFM continues to provide impact driven insights in the arena of Mindfulness by harnessing its Research & Development capabilities. The R&D division works on varied aspects of life and living, organisational development, learning and development, education and teaching, psychotherapy, meditation, leadership, innovation and creativity to understand and evolve actionable insights as to how mindfulness can be blended in different settings.

Sustainability, simplicity and synthesis are the hallmarks and key approaches to our R&D. We engage and collaborate with individuals, institutions and organisations to further knowledge development and management in the domain of Mindfulness.

In this endeavour our Founder Director, Krishna, is leading key initiatives to offer new and refreshing approaches to leadership development, creativity, learning and development to develop learning/unlearning platforms and knowledge frameworks for varied learners and stakeholders ranging for corporates, institutions, individuals and professionals. In line with it, the R&D division is actively working on varied IPR and patents.
